

Leaders Want Simple

We understand what leaders can actually commit to doing and what is not within the realm of their reality.

Leaders want:

Simplicity, to facilitate understanding.

Practicality, to facilitate action.

To gain proficiency quickly.

Tangible benefits that they and others can see.

To eliminate problems, especially chronic ones that consume their time and energy.

A return on their investment in time and money.

This is what Speed Leadership is designed to do.

Speed Leadership helps you do what you do better.

Digital transformation requires a fresh look at leadership. The 100-year old behavioral approach to leadership development must be augmented with a new, re-imagined approach to leadership development.

Just as the digital age establishes a new paradigm for business, it also establishes a new paradigm for leadership.

"Looking at leadership from a process perspective rather than a behavioral perspective is brilliant."
– Ovidiu Contras, Bombardier

"Bob's insight about treating leadership as a process is a breakthrough in leadership thinking." – Dan Latham, Amgen

What is Speed Leadership?

For over 100 years, the view of leadership has been behavioral. Speed Leadership takes a process view of leadership.

Most of what leaders do is defined by 15 recurring leadership processes. Improve the processes to improve leadership!

Speed Leadership moves leadership forward from behaviors and personality to processes and cause-and-effect.

Speed Leadership solves long-standing problems to greatly improve leadership and business performance.

Speed Leadership helps you do what you do better.

Much Better.

A Better Way to Lead

Practical • Specific • Actionable • Measurable

Simplify leadership to keep up with the fast-changing times we now live and work in.

Speed Leadership takes a different view of leadership - a process view, where time, information, and information flow are the most critical parameters for leadership success.

Tired of all the behavior and personality-based leadership development programs?

Try Speed Leadership. It is a new design for leadership that fits with how business is done in the digital age.

You'll be amazed at how leadership has been turned into a science.

The Workshops

The workshop consists of nine parts. Select one part or all nine parts. The choice is yours.

The Speed Leadership Workshops approach leadership from an entirely new direction. It is based on a new concept in leadership for the digital age:

- Time
- Information
- Information Flow

This unique approach augments and expands upon the well-established behavioral approaches to leadership.

The workshops give participants an entirely new understanding of the function of leadership, as well as their role and responsibilities as leaders.

Try Speed Leadership!

Participants receive:

- Color workbook
- Signed copies of Speed Leadership
- Online follow-up and coaching
